Selby Employment Strategy Day

I went to the Employment Strategy Day in December

There were people here from across North Yorkshire, including job centre staff and employers

It was a chance for people to get together to make plans on how to find more paid employment for people with learning disabilities and Autism

The groups thought about things that should go into the plan and how we should work together to make these things happen

Everyone had some good ideas about what should happen.

It was a good day

- Richard Dalby met with the supported employment team in North Yorkshire County Council and discussed ways in which we can make it easier for more people with a learning Disabilities and Autism to find jobs.

An application form titled "Application Form" is shown. It has four sections, each with a small icon and a text input field:

- Name: Icon of a person holding a sign.
- Address: Icon of a house.
- Education: Icon of a person sitting at a desk.
- Work Experience: Icon of a person working at a desk.

- He is looking at ways to make it easier for people with learning Disabilities to apply for jobs.

Bill Love from NDTI is helping Inclusion north to develop an employment strategy for North Yorkshire based on our comments from the day
